ANDERSON VALLEY PINOT NOIR

“Cellar Selection: Superb;
A great achievement”

“Great aromatic complexity and richly layered fruit flavors propel this full-bodied, sophisticated and deep wine. An array of cinnamon, clove and cedar notes blend with ripe black cherry and blackberry, while firm, finegrained tannins seem to lift them up.

Best to drink after 2020.”

POINTS

“Goldeneye's 2013 Ten Degrees shows layered blue fruits with hints of spice and earthy, toasty notes on the palate. The tannins are refined and supple, and the finish long and succulent. This is a Goldeneye that always possesses a strong ‘yum’ factor and the 2013 is from that very successful mold.”

2013 GOLDENEYE TEN DEGREES ESTATE GROWN ANDERSON VALLEY PINOT NOIR

“There is now a breathtaking body of world-class California Pinot from which to choose...certain parcels ranging from Santa Barbara to Mendocino have come to be regarded with the kind of reverence once reserved for the better crus of the Côtes d’Or. The bounty of very good offerings, both big and trim, will satisfy the contemplative drinker in a way that only Pinot Noir can.”

95 POINTS

“An exceptional wine. Worth a special search of the market.”

“Goldeneye’s preference in Pinot has been for meaty, mouthfilling wines that make no apologies for ripeness and richness, and the winery’s latest flagship Ten Degrees release is a veritable poster child for the Goldeneye style. It is dense, big-shouldered and close to chewy in texture with fruity extract galore, and it sports plenty of tannic grip, but, far from being a one-note exercise in unbridled ripeness, it is a serious wine of great depth whose considerable achievement might not be fully evident for another five or six years. This is definitely one to lay away.”

“Many Exceptional Pinot Noirs Reviewed”

“Winemaker Michael Fay took over the helm at Goldeneye in 2012, inheriting a diverse Anderson Valley estate program with 24 different clones of Pinot Noir and 69 distinct clone and rootstock combinations. I could sense a subtle difference in the 2013 Goldeneye Pinot Noirs and embraced the winemaking direction.”

POINTS

“Outstanding”

“Dark reddish purple color in the glass. Deep aromas of dark berry preserves, dark red rose petal and earth lead to a full charge of chewy black fruits. The wine enters aggressively but turns agreeable and silken on the palate, finishing with generous amounts of toothsome fruit, leathery beef and toasted oak notes.”
